Granville Publications releases Up Your Cash Flow XT2 Popular forecasting tool now includes FULL weekly forecasting capabilities

Los Angeles, CA, April 11, 2007 – Granville Software, developers of the popular cash flow forecasting software Up Your Cash Flow XT, announces the release of Up Your Cash Flow XT2. Up Your Cash Flow XT2 contains all features of XT (12 month profit & loss, cash flow, balance sheets, comparative analysis, financial ratios etc. with over 60+ forecasted financial reports). Now in addition to all of the XT features Up Your Cash Flow XT2 adds the ability to do cash flow forecasting for 1 to 13 weeks.

Begin a forecast using any day of the year and create almost unlimited scenarios. Automatically keep track of your receivables, payables, credit line and cash flow borrowing base balances from week to week. Import receivables, payables and with ONE click of a button they're spread for payment or collection over the weeks of your forecast. In addition, prepare comparative reports of actual vs forecast. If a 12 month forecast has been prepared, the user with the click of a button, can drill down a quarters data from the 12 month forecast into the 13 week forecast. The user will never create a formula or build a model. This powerful tool truly eliminates any need for a spreadsheet program.

"Up you cash flow is a product built by its customers", says Harvey A. Goldstein, developer of the popular program. "All the features of this powerful program are a result of our listening to our customers over the years. They have spoken yet again. They wanted weekly forecasting ...we responded with our new 1 to 13 week cash flow forecasting feature."

Up Your Cash Flow XT2 is a HUGE time saver. It will allow management, CPA's, consultants and turnaround specialist to deal with business issues rather the model building.

accurate results. Thanks for introducing me to your excellent program and thank you for your tireless efforts to make the program even timelier and in tune with today's market demands!"
