Granville Publications releases Up Your Cash Flow XT2-2009 Upgrade

Popular forecasting tool now includes Dashboard reporting, Economic Value Added, and a formula-free spreadsheet module

Los Angeles, CA, May 16, 2007 – Granville Software, developers of the popular cash flow forecasting software Up Your Cash Flow XT2, announces the release of the Up Your Cash Flow XT2-2009 Upgrade. This new upgrade contains all the features of XT2 (12 month profit & loss, cash flow, balance sheets, comparative analysis, financial ratios, weekly cash flow forecasting, etc. with over 60+ forecasted financial reports). Now Up Your Cash Flow contains several powerful new features.

One of the greatest features available in the upgrade is a “Driver Calculator” that is essentially a spreadsheet without the headaches creating the model, dealing with cells, or developing formulas. “This will change the way you forecast sales in your company”, says Harvey A. Goldstein, CPA, developer of the popular program. “In many companies sales are driven by an aggressive marketing campaign. The elements of the marketing campaign can be used to predict the amounts of a company’s sales in total or by product, customer, etc. We asked ourselves ‘how can we provide a spreadsheet program without the need to develop formulas, without building a model and yet have as many elements (the drivers) in the process as the user wishes? We did it. And its fully integrated with Up Your Cash Flow. The results are the ‘Driver Calculator’. It truly enhances your forecasting capabilities! No more spreadsheets. Hooray! The uses of our ‘Driver Calculator’ are only limited by ones imagination.”

Also added to the upgrade are new expense accounts to the cost of goods sold section, changes for Goodwill Impairment, Automatic Economic Value Added calculation (get the true economic value of the profit made), a Dashboard, reporting enhancements, and the ability to import multiple revenue lines has been added to our key in/import section of the program.

Up Your Cash Flow XT2-2009 is a HUGE time saver. It will allow management, CPA’s, finance professionals and consultants to deal with business issues rather than model building.

The Up Your Cash Flow XT2-2009 upgrade will be released on June 15, 2008. The upgrade costs will be $349 from XT2, more for older versions. There are special offers and discounts available for a limited time. Contact Granville for your offer.
